

I believe it would be OK to allow Novice Band users to use the General Class CW bands with a 200 watt max power limit so you can expand the phone bands. There doesn't seem like there is much activity on the Novice bands these days. This will allow the Novice to operate in a segment of the band where he is more likely to make some contacts and be exposed to a higher level of operating procedures. Thank you for allowing me to comment. Paul / W7MHZ